Subject: Wastewater Treatment Plant Discussion

Background: The City currently operates two wastewater treatment plants. The northside plant is an activated sludge process, whereas the southside plant has a trickle filter process. The City of Shawnee is one of an estimated five remaining municipalities within the State of Oklahoma to operate a trickle filter facility; associated replacement parts are very limited and, in some cases, have to be custom-built. Operations at the southside plant require extra care due to its environmentally sensitive location near the South Canadian River. Therefore, in 2019, the City considered two options for upgrades to the wastewater treatment operations:

- Option 1 included the construction of an aero-mod plant at the southside location and limited upgrades to the northside plant. In early 2020, the southside project and the modifications at the northside plant's conceptual cost was estimated to be around $33.5 million.
 - Pros:
 - Addresses issues at southside plant.
 - Costs less than Option 2.
 - Cons:
 - Southside plant operations remain almost entirely within the floodplain.
 - Updates do not provide long-term growth capacity at northside plant where most of the City's growth is located.
 - Two separate plants cost approximately $475,000 more per year to operate.

It is estimated that with current component and labor pricing, the cost of Option 1 would be just under $78 million.

- Option 2 included the conversion of the southside plant into a large lift station, the construction of a cross-town force-main, and the reconstruction of the northside plant to a system that offered the capacity for phased growth. In early 2020, the conceptual cost for the Option 2 upgrades was estimated to be $40.3 million.

- Pros:
 - Nets savings of $475,000 per year in operations cost.
 - Provides for long-term growth capacity of the City.
 - Removes current southside wastewater treatment operations from an environmentally sensitive area.
- Cons:
 - Costs more than Option 1.

In 2020, the preliminary construction estimate for Option 2 was around $40.3 million. At a difference of about $7 million between Options 1 and 2, and in consideration of ongoing maintenance and operations cost, the City elected to move forward with Option 2, for which the City secured $51.4 million funding from the Oklahoma Water Resources Board.

Since early 2020, unprecedented events occurred, which have resulted in significant cost increases for the proposed wastewater treatment plant project. The recent August 1 bid opening resulted in a low bid of $103,558,735 for the necessary improvements. With the inclusion of professional services and contingencies, the overall project would be approaching 116 million dollars. This magnitude of cost increase is unfortunately not unheard of; when City staff checked with peer cities, who are currently undertaking projects of similar size and nature, the percentage cost increase over the original engineer's estimate was on average 91 percent higher than anticipated.

In an effort to provide all the necessary information to make an informed decision, City staff has also looked into how the project schedule might be impacted, if the City now decided to return to Option 1:

Given Option 2's lengthy construction schedule, there is not a significant change to the timing of when improvements would be operational at the two wastewater treatment plants. The second, and perhaps more important question, is the unknown financial impact if the City were to delay the implementation of the wastewater treatment plant upgrades. In light of the significant surges in cost and the increasing competition for contractors due to an influx of American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) and Bipartisan Infrastructure Law (BIL) funding, further cost escalation is highly probable.

Financial Impact: An additional Clean Water State Revolving Fund (CWSRF) promissory note in the amount of $65,635,000.00 from the Oklahoma Water Resources Board is needed; the loan would be backed by a Utility Improvement Fee, which would be assessed to each water and/or wastewater account and gradually increased over the course of four years.
